

Oak And Ash

Catherine Faber

♩ = 95

Oak and ash to brace and bind. Ro-wan and thorn to ward and wind.
Oak and ash to hold the field. Ro-wan and thorn to shape and shield, To Oak and ash to front the fray, Ro-wan and thorn to mark the way.
Oak and ash and bone and dust. Ro-wan and thorn and faith and trust. Be-

On the bur-den I had from you, A key that knows what it's meant to do, catch your kil-ler would mean a fight.— There's a rea-son you bound a knight.
Just how long is your curs-e's chain? Who am I - to hold do-main, A fore your eyes - were closed for good, I ne-ver knew - you un-der-stood The Rose and bram-ble are en-ter-twined.

I may lose, but I ne-ver yield.
Leige to shel-ter the least of Fae?
one who can is the one who must.

